LUCA PISANU

SINGER-SONGWRITER / COMPOSER / PRODUCER / MULTI-INSTRUMENTALIST

Soul in the pocket. Songs with teeth.

Sardinian-born and Glasgow-based, Luca Pisanu is a singer-songwriter, composer, producer and multi-instrumentalist whose sound moves through blues, soul, jazz, funk and neo-soul.

A guitarist since the age of eight, he pairs warm vocals with melodic guitar work and bass lines built for the body. His solo material carries the instincts of a seasoned collaborator: arrangement-first, groove-led and alive to the room.

SHORT BIO

Luca Pisanu is a Sardinian singer-songwriter, producer and multi-instrumentalist based in Glasgow. Rooted in blues, soul, jazz, funk and neo-soul, his music joins warm vocals, expressive guitar and deep-pocket bass with a producer's ear for shape and detail.

FULL BIO

Drawn to music early, Luca began guitar at eight and followed that spark through an eclectic musical education shaped by Stevie Wonder, Stevie Ray Vaughan and Jimi Hendrix. After performing across the UK, Italy and France, he developed a solo voice that is groovy, suave and emotionally direct. Alongside his own work, Luca has become a familiar presence in Glasgow's adventurous soul and jazz ecosystem - playing bass with Tom McGuire and the Brassholes, performing with Mercury Prize-nominated jazz collective corto.alto, working on guitar with Charlotte Marshall and the 45s, contributing as a session musician, and hosting jam sessions that connect players and audiences.

"Groove-led, expressive and alive to the room."
